Who am I?

I am a young creative, specializing in the disciplines of graphic design and illustration. I approach briefs using a variety of both new and traditional media to achieve what has now become quite a unique style. While studying graphic design and illustration at degree level, I focused a lot of my attention on developing illustrative material for children, in both educational and entertainment contexts. When I'm not "drawing stuff", I enjoy making and listening to music. I play the drums and guitar, and I enjoy DJing, but mainly in the confines of my bedroom. I also enjoy skiing, snowboarding, I occasionally play golf, and I would consider dismantling computers a hobby too!

Education

I studied both fine art and design at GCSE and A-Level. For a year I studied product design at De Montfort university, before deciding my skills were more suited to the illustration studio. I enrolled on the graphics and illustration course in 2006, again at De Montfort. I consider this to be the best decision I've made to date in my academic life. I completed my degree in July 2009. Find a list of my qualifications to date overleaf.

Experience

After graduating from university, I completed a short internship with a graphic design agency in Doncaster call Work Creative. I learnt a great deal in this internship about the differences between working in university and working in a real design studio. After completing my internship, I briefly worked on a freelance basis for a number of clients, noteworthy ones being dental practices, a motoring school, a community centre and a martial arts school. From these briefs I gained experience managing briefs from start to completion, and from a technical perspective I learned a lot about working to branding guidelines (as well as creating them) as well as catering for the partially sighted which was an important element to consider when working within the NHS branding guidelines.

I've also worked in 2 design studios full time; Picatime Ltd, and Image Me Ltd. Picatime was a small startup web company aiming to launch a photo sharing website. At Picatime I was responsible for almost every visual aspect of the corporate ID, and the overall website design. Image Me on the other hand operated mainly in the tourism industry, supplying green screen souvenir photography systems for tourist attractions. Again, I was responsible for almost all visual media, both in print and on-screen. I gained a lot of experience at Image Me in designing POS media, and approaching briefs considering the "customer journey".

Experience - Print

I have experience in design for print in the form of editorial ad design for magazines, while working for the clients Salon-e-news.co.uk and the Independent Baby Product Guide, who both needed "advertorial" style ads designing. I have also worked with printers for business stationery briefs, catalogue design and promotional material.

Experience - Web

I start web design projects in much the same way as I would a print design; with pen and paper. My experience in web-design includes e-commerce website design, blog design for the wordpress platform, and static sites using PHP/XHTML with CSS. Recent web design projects have included itouchhotel.co.uk, airbagknowledge.co.uk, pical.me, image-me.biz, picatime.co.uk, and connectionevents.co.uk to name a few.

Experience - Corporate ID

I have commercial experience in corporate ID, and have received classical training on developing succesful and unique corporate IDs while at university. Clients I have developed branding and Corporate ID for include itouchhotel.co.uk, Milne Spencer Harris dental practice, Picatime Ltd and Bamford Dental Practice.
